

Death Blazers

Representing: Belgium

Team Description: Death Blazers is a metal band that occasionally plays at Belgium racing circuits, but thanks to Lyn Rose's help, the band also became a racing team. Death Blazers may have started off as a metal band, but its members are skillful enough to win many major races in Belgium, and are good enough to compete globally. Lyn Rose coaches Miranda Rose, Keith Nivens, and Sam Draiman.

Coach: Lyn Rose

Age: 52

Sex: Female

Race/Ethnicity: White, European(Belgian)

Hailing Country: Belgium

Character Description

During Lyn Rose's younger years, she was a professional racer and opera singer. She was one of the best racers and singers in Belgium, so good in fact that she was able to retire at the age of thirty; however, she continued her careers in order to soon provide for her daughter, Miranda Rose. Lyn not only manages the finances of her daughter's metal band, but she also manages the Death Blazers' racing team. Although Lyn is typically a kind and caring individual outside of racing, she becomes extremely fierce when a part of any competition. When coaching the Death Blazers, Lyn's personality reverts back to when she was a racer and motivates the team to destroy their opposition—legally of course.

Racer #667: Miranda Rose

Age: 26

Sex: Female

Race/Ethnicity: White, European(Belgian)

Hailing Country: Belgium

Character Description

Miranda Rose is the lead singer of Death Blazers. During her early music career, Miranda and her group mostly performed in various racing circuits. Although she is passionate about music, Miranda developed an adoration for racing after performing in so many racing circuits. Miranda recognized that the intensity of racing seemed to mimic the intensity of her music; this thinking made Miranda a competitive and difficult racer to beat. Although Miranda is now an active racer, she typically has the opportunity to force the crowd to head-bang to her music before she races.

Racer #668: Keith Nivens

Age: 25 Years Old

Sex: Male

Race/Ethnicity: White, European(Belgian)

Hailing Country: Belgium

Character Description

Keith Nivens is the guitarist of Death Blazers. Just like Miranda, Keith developed a liking for racing after performing music in many racing circuits. As a racer, Keith is not as talented as Miranda, but is still adamant about improving himself as both a musician and racer. He is quite humble—at least visually. Although he cares about his Death Blazers members, Keith is self-aware of his jealous tendencies toward Miranda's talents. However, he hides such feelings to preserve his relationship with Death Blazers. Hiding his true emotions negatively affects his performance as a musician and as a racer. Keith attempts to play off his mistakes by saying things such as "I guess I'm just having a bad day," "my arm is feeling right," etc. But soon, Keith needs to eventually voice his problems with his close friends if he wants to eliminate his feelings of jealousy.

Racer #670: Sam Draiman

Age: 26 Years Old

Sex: Male

Race/Ethnicity: White, European(Belgian)

Hailing Country: Belgium

Character Description

Sam Draiman is the drummer of Death Blazers. Unlike Miranda and Keith, Sam could not easily develop a passion for racing—at least not yet. He became interested in racing after performing music in many racing circuits; however, when he was behind the wheel of a race car, the speed scared him. In order to race alongside the rest of his Death Blazers members, Sam practices behind the wheel of a race car nearly every day. For now, Sam only participates in minor racing circuits, but wishes to soon participate in more high-stakes racing.
