

Rebel Runners

Representing: Argentina

Team Description: Calvino Pallazo formed Rebel Runners because he saw the future in three children: Alvarez García, Violeta Silva, and Elijah Davis. Rebel Runners has no major victories, for it is a new team. However, the team's potential is immense because they are always within the top ten of every race they have been in. For now, the team is at its "infant" stage.

Coach: Calvino Pallazo

Age: 72

Sex: Male

Race/Ethnicity: Hispanic, Argentine

Hailing Country: Argentina

Character Description

Calvino Pallazo was one of the best racers of his generation, winning multiple global races. However, he has been retired for an extremely long time. One of his favorite activities since he now had more time (due to retirement) was walking around his neighborhood, which allowed him to witness the actions of a group of hooligans. At first, he thought about reporting them, but Calvino observed closer and realized they were just orphan kids attempting to appease their racing aspirations. Calvino kindly offered the children training sessions, which eventually resulted in the formation of Rebel Runners—fully funded by himself. Despite the members of Rebel Runners being inexperienced, Calvino still sees a lot of himself in the kids because of their fiery and passionate attitudes. Calvino himself is no longer as high-spirited and arrogant, but is instead much calmer and wiser. He simply wants to continue honoring his beloved sport, racing, through the Rebel Runners.

Racer #334: Alvarez García

Age: 21

Sex: Male

Race/Ethnicity: Hispanic, Argentine

Character Description

Alvarez García is an orphan that essentially serves as the leader of his group of hooligans. He is a high-spirited individual that loves inciting chaos. Such is clear whenever he and his group go around the nearest town and graffiti on the walls. However, Alvarez's favorite activity is going to the junkyard, repairing old abandoned vehicles, and racing in them with his group. After meeting with Calvino Pallazo, Alvarez now has the opportunity to enjoy real racing and is adamant about being the best racer alive. Alvarez is not opposed to utilizing extremely cheap tactics to win races (for now) but will soon have more discipline as he progresses in Calvino's training.

Racer #499: Violeta Silva

Age: 20

Sex: Female

Race/Ethnicity: Hispanic, Argentine

Character Description

Violeta Silva is an orphan that found a sense of belonging within a group of hooligans. She is also a high-spirited individual, enjoying graffiti and junkyard racing, but wields much more restraint than Alvarez. While as a racer in Rebel Runners, Violeta mixes her mischievous racing style with Calvino's teachings, making her slightly more disciplined than Alvarez but still emphasizing the "Rebel" part of Rebel Runners.

Racer #229: Elijah Davis

Age: 19

Sex: Male

Race/Ethnicity: Black, American

Hailing Country: United States

Character Description

Despite being born in the United States, Elijah Davis still became an orphan in Argentina. He struggled to find a sense of belonging for a long time until he stumbled upon Alvarez and Violeta. Although he was shy around the two for some time, Elijah loved being around them. Though, he barely participated in the two's hooligan actions. He mostly joined the two hooligans in junkyard racing, for that was what he loved to do. As a member of Rebel Runners, Elijah is the most disciplined member, quickly learning Calvino's teachings, and is arguably the best racer of Rebel Runners. The only aspect Elijah truly lacks is the competitive and fiery personality that Alvarez and Violeta wield—at least for now.
